The process journal

The student's documentation of the process should include:

- evidence of planning and research

- personal reflections

- evaluations of work produced

- records of interactions with key resources (for example teachers, supervisors, external experts etc.)

- These records will form the basis for the project report.